What is a CSA?

Community Supported Agriculture, or CSA, creates a direct link between local farmers and consumers by allowing members to purchase a share of a farmer's crop before it's produced each season. This allows the farmer to pay for seed, water, equipment, etc., up front, so they are less reliant on credit. Each week during the growing season the farmer delivers great tasting, healthful food to predetermined locations. In some instances, members pick up the share directly from the farm.

Our Mission

This Cooperative CSA aims to promote the "Know Your Farmer, Know Your Food" movement. All our partnering farms are local young and beginning farmers, and practice safe, sustainable, organic agriculture. We are stewards of the land and strive to protect the environment, public health, and animal welfare. We want you to have a choice. We work to diversify our market and CSA so you can find everything you need in one trip or click.

Through our CSA you can choose from the vegetables each farm has to offer and we will package it for you in one convenient CSA box. Our CSA is an online service allowing you to shop from the comfort of your home. We want a direct relationship with our community, so come on by and experience the farm for yourself!

How it Works

Our CSA only works via an online marketplace.

Each week you will receive a newsletter which informs you of important news, events, and all the items available to order that week for your CSA share.

If you are interested in the items available that week you will login to the market place and create a customized CSA Share. You will also be able to choose a convenient pick up location each week as you order.

In the online market place you will be credited $20.00 for every CSA Share. You can order more than $20.00 per box but will pay the extra on pick up.

Once you use up all your CSA shares you can still use the online market place to order market goods all year but will pay as you go.

You can order anytime throughout the year but we suggest you to take advantage of our main growing seasons!

Your order will be harvested, packaged, and placed in a cool environment to keep fresh until you pick up at your desired Pick-Up location.
